

School uniforms give students a sense of belonging to a particular school and create an identity for the school in the community. My school is one of many that seem to be returning to a more formal uniform – this September I will be wearing a shirt and blazer instead of my old jumper and polo shirt. A number of students have complained about the change, but general opinion is that the jumpers and polo shirts were "childish".

A school uniform teaches students to dress smartly and take pride in their appearance. Some people believe that a school uniform can improve learning by reducing distraction, sharpening focus on schoolwork and making the classroom a more serious environment, allowing students to perform better academically.

However, if students don't wear uniforms they will have to worry about peer pressure when it comes to their clothes. There is also competition about being dressed in the latest trend, which would put a great deal of financial pressure on students and parents. Potential bullies have one more target for their insults; it's easy to make fun of what someone is wearing when you're not dressed exactly the same.
